FOREWORD

Enthusiasm marked the spirit with which the students entered Robert E. Lee High School this year. It has been a year of excitement and achievement as well as disappointment and frustration. The many new courses introduced at Lee this year have excited the students to work with a spirit of adventure and exploration. The seniors have been caught up in the anticipation of new experiences and vistas opening up for them in college.

Athletics played an important part in the life of Lee students this year. The Lee teams entered into each competitive event with a zest that swept the Lee students into the spirit of the games.

With the help of an understanding faculty, the students at Lee co-operated to produce new ideas and productions which made 1965 an eventful year. As the year went on, a spirit of togetherness, as well as a seriousness of purpose, became more and more evident.

The shock which reverberated over the nation when they lost their President had a lasting effect on the students of 1965.

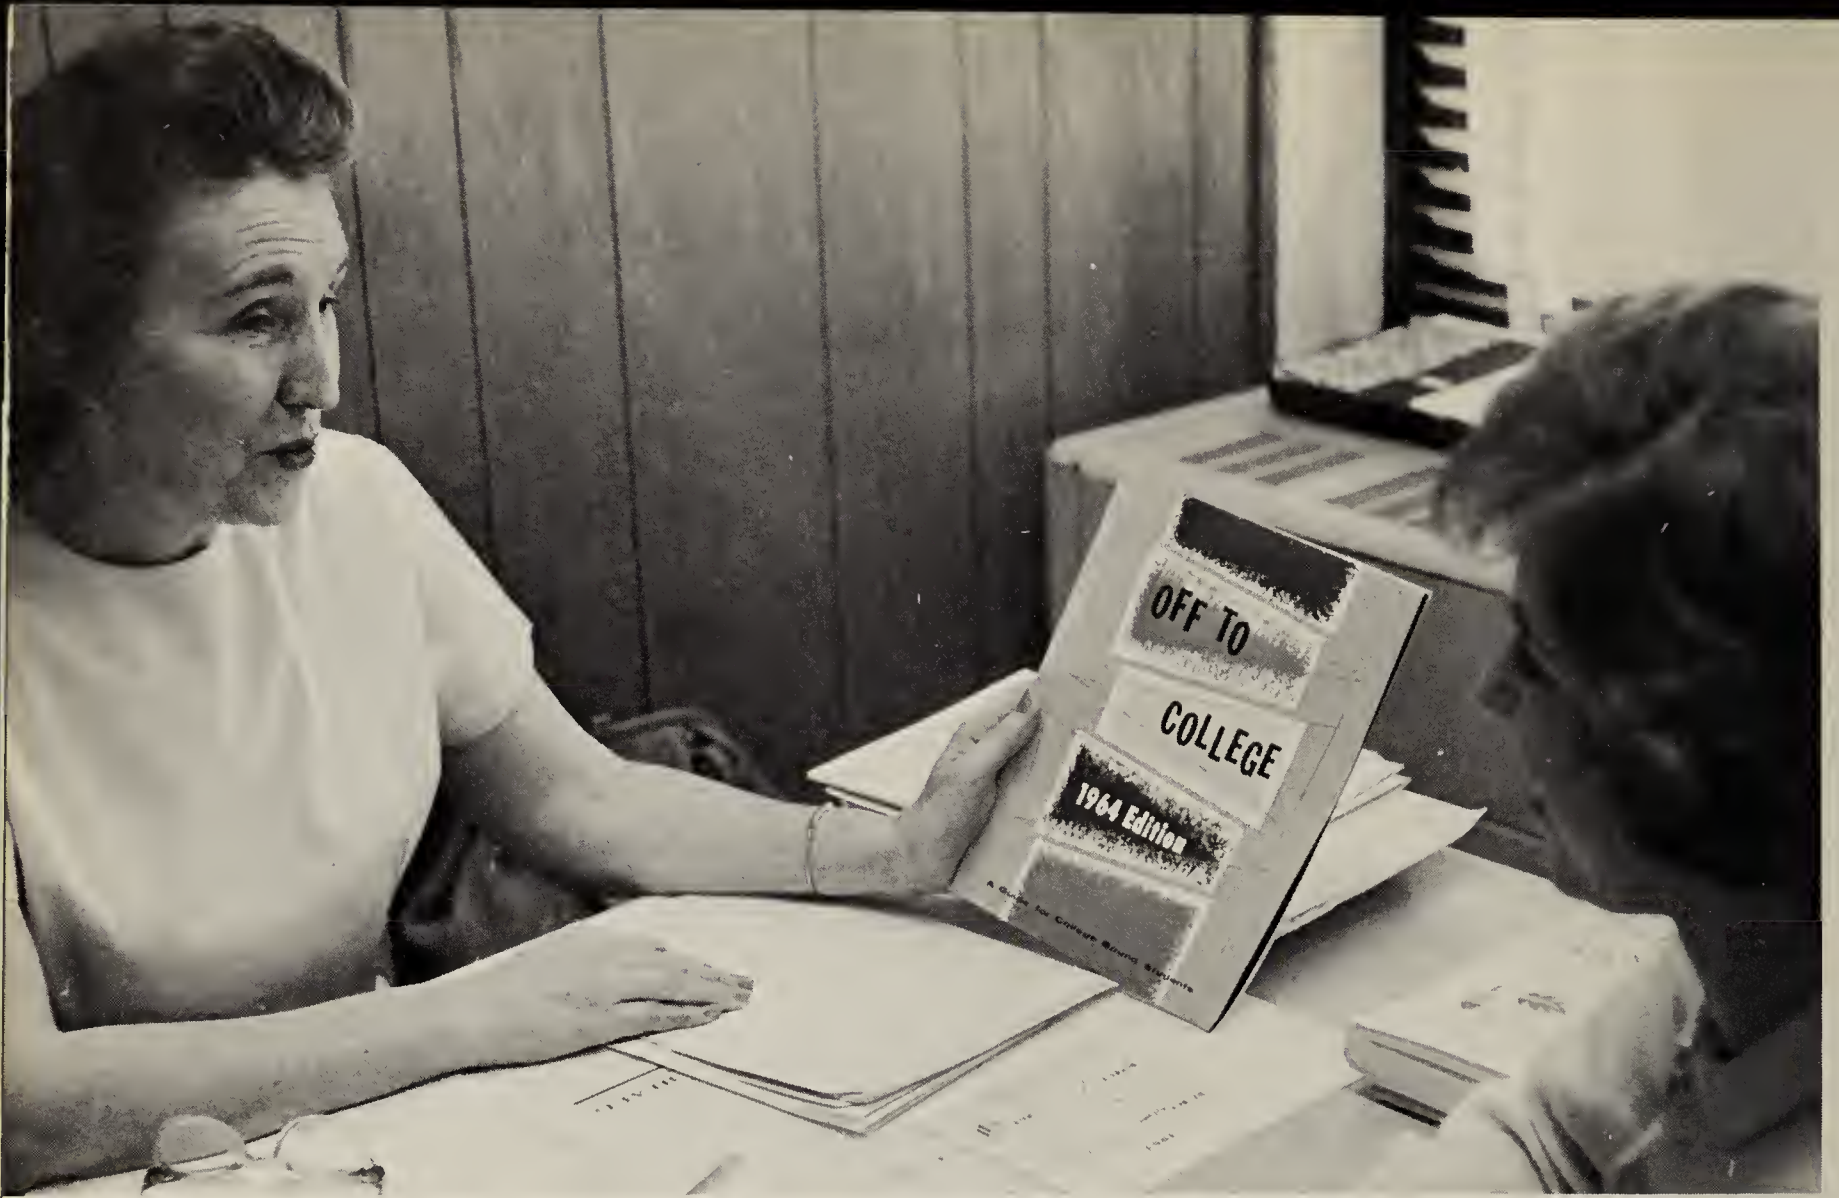

Everyone seemed to feel a deeper sense of patriotism and showed more interest in the choice of their leaders in the fall elections.

In the 1965 Leeway we shall try to capture the many spirits of Lee High.

Spirit of Understanding

The students at Lee High feel extremely fortunate in having an understanding faculty to guide them through the year. Their help often extends beyond classroom stimulation to personal guidance. The seniors especially appreciate the interest and assistance they receive in planning their college careers, or making plans for their future.

Many members of the Lee faculty also give their time and assistance as advisers to school publications and clubs. Some faculty members serve as class sponsors and give invaluable assistance, ideas, and encouragement to the officers and classes as a whole. They participate in school events and frequently help direct class productions and social functions. They are among the teams' most loyal supporters and frequently attend the Lee games. The contribution made by an understanding and willing faculty member to a student's success cannot be measured, but it can be experienced and appreciated. Lee High students will always consider the relationships with their teachers among the treasures of their high school days.

The executives and office staff at Lee High are largely responsible for helping the school to maintain its reputation as a truly outstanding academic institution. Mr. McSwain, is the 1964 president of the Virginia Education Association. He and Mr. Smither have introduced many new courses and modern methods of teaching at Lee. Mr. Taylor, a former history and government teacher, is the assistant principal and is responsible for school discipline. Miss Cook and Miss Homan perform various duties such as answering the phone and students' questions, writing notes, and compiling absentee lists. The students and faculty are very indebted to the office staff.

The Guidance Counselors Help the

With the continuous stress on a college education, the guidance department has doubled its staff. They give students help and advice in selecting colleges and subjects to take. In the newly decorated office, students may read various publications which contain helpful information concerning study habits, choices of subjects in high school and in college, and higher education.

The librarians are ready and willing to help students find sources to write their much dreaded term papers and parallels. They also keep an up-to-date library, ordering new books periodically. The library contains one book-case of college catalogues which help the students choose their colleges.

The art department works with many different methods of drawing and painting. The students decorate the library bulletin board and the window outside the art room door. They also help in painting backdrops for presentations given by various other departments.

No one seems to question the value of the business courses offered at Lee High. The students see a very definite purpose in their work and really take an interest in it.

The department has been training the students in practical skills. Practice in the classroom and participation in the part-time job program will prepare them to be future leaders in the business world. College-bound students already are realizing the value of shorthand and typing when English papers are to be typed and history notes taken. General business, bookkeeping, and vocational office training have given the students an insight into future careers in office work. The Distributive education courses provide training classes in employee-employer relationship.

Journalism and Drama Courses Are Added

The English department has expanded this year at Lee. There are two new courses, Journalism and Drama. The journalism classes "learn by doing." Along with their textbook studies, pupils write for the student section of the local newspapers and present their own radio program. The drama class' purpose is to become familiar with drama as a literary form. They do not present plays but make critical analyses of them.

In the regular English courses, study ranges from "grammar to Greek." Students study short stories, poems, plays, and novels. They read such classics as GREAT EXPECTATIONS, SILAS MARNER, THE SCARLET LETTER, and MACBETH. Grammar and self expression are also stressed.

The advanced senior English classes are designed to develop ability to read and write more adeptly. This is in preparation for the demands of college work. They study several Greek plays to give them a better conception of drama and prepare them for the English literature.

Susan Menk listens attentively as Miss Morris helps her in English.

Language Department Places More Emphasis on Conversation and Comprehension.

With the increasing need for a better understanding of the world around us and the people who live in it, Lee High offers comprehensive courses in French, Spanish, and Latin. After two years of introductory French, the third year class studies the literature, history, and contemporary life of France, which is co-ordinated with conversation in the language and with the study of grammar. With the accent on conversation, three years of Spanish are available to students who learn of the life, language, and culture of Spain and of our neighbors to the south in Latin America. And from the Commentaries of Caesar to the orations of Cicero, the Latin classes at Lee offer the student four years of the classics produced by the ancient Roman writers.

This year the first year classes have learned to cook and sew, and have also studied family relations and personal grooming. The second year classes learned in addition to these arts, first aid, home nursing, and the care of young children.

Third year home economics, offered for the second time, gave a course in preparation for marriage, even planning and holding a mock wedding and reception. After studying home-planning and management, the girls made scrapbooks to be used in later years when they would become real homemakers.

Nancy Lottman, Nancy Robertson, Pam Pascal, and Chryl Cash form the receiving line as Phyllis Robertson, and Glenda Robertson congratulate Brenda Knopp and Chip Sensabaugh. The home economics III classes planned and carried out mock weddings and receptions -- they persuaded some of the boys from study hall to take part.

Steve Jackson strives for accuracy as he draws a set of plans in Mechanical Drawing class.

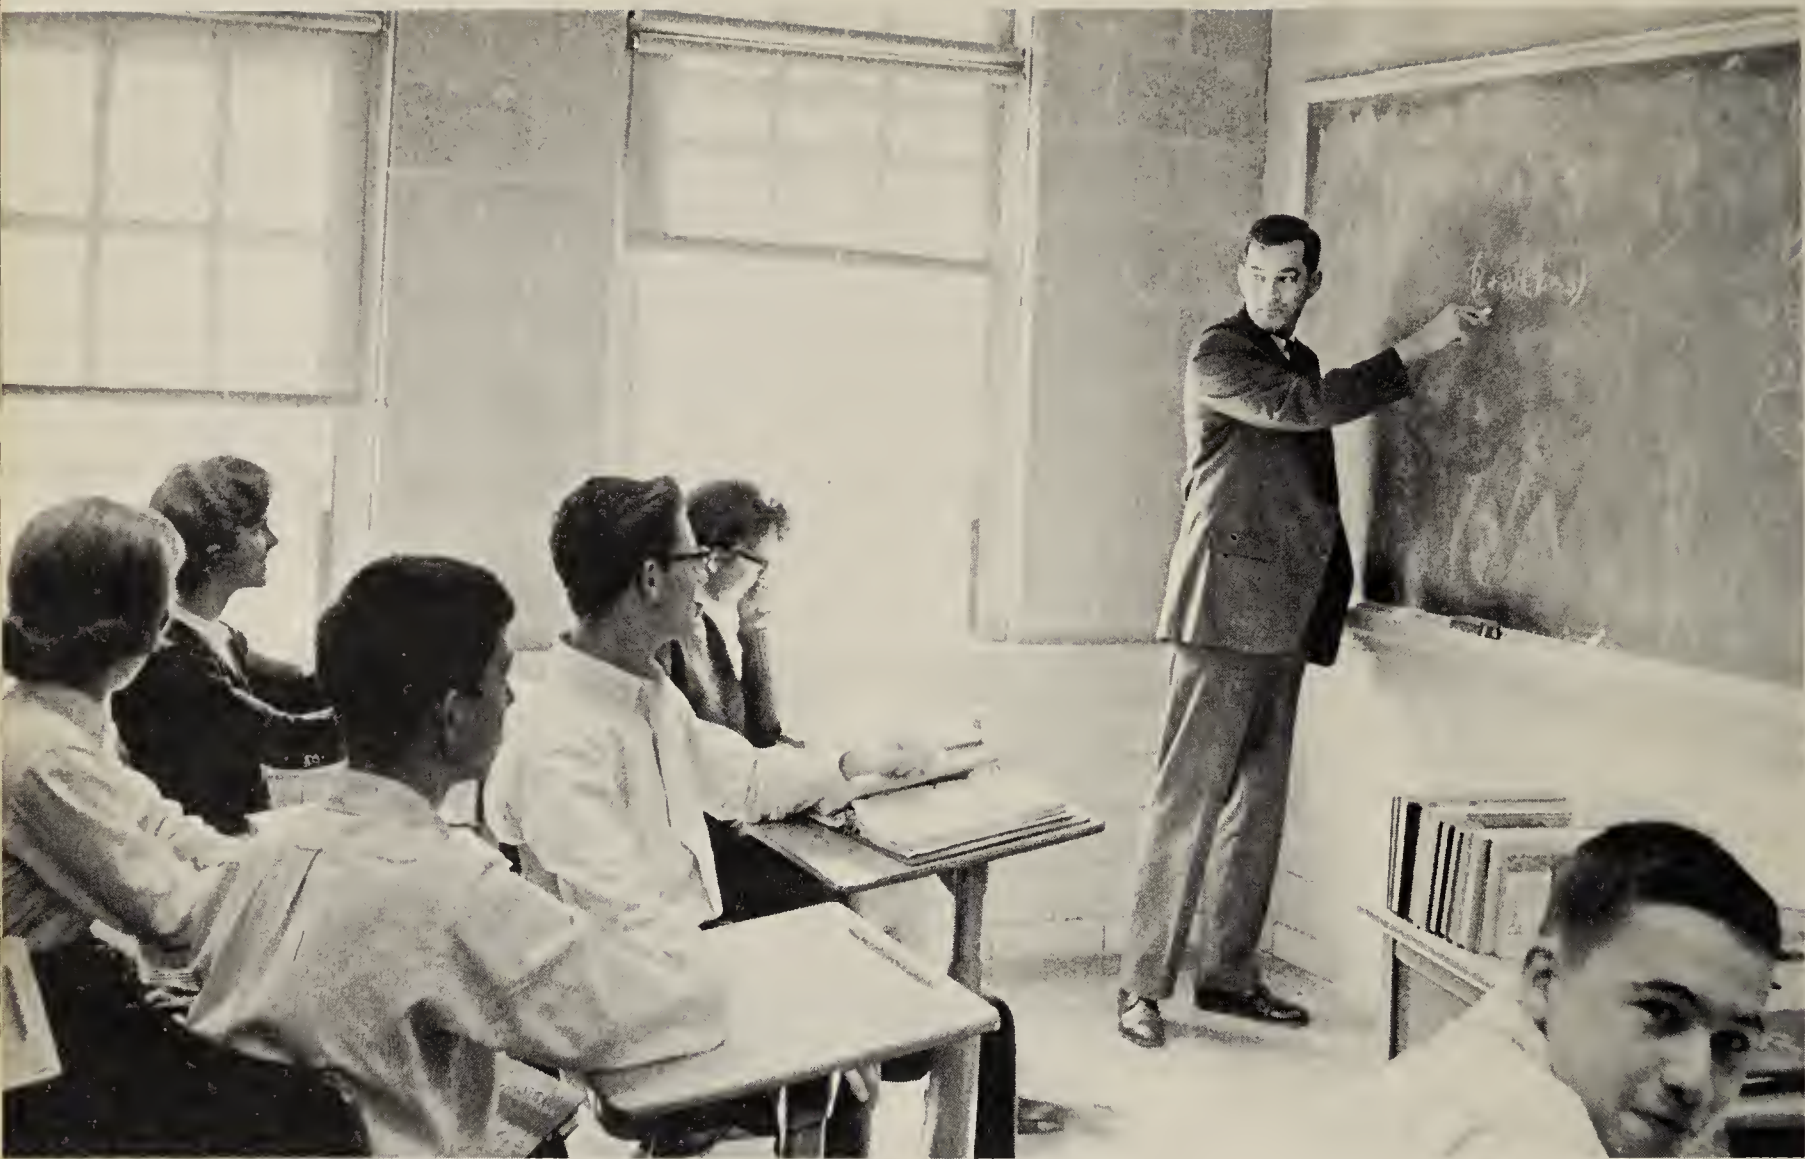

The boys in these classes learn basic mechanical drawing. They learn to use tools and to do new constructions and repair jobs for the school. Those studying the arts of woodwork are mastering basic crafts that may become an occupation or hobby later in life.

Sweeping Changes Occur in the Mathematics Department as Modern Courses Are Introduced.

Changes in the teaching of mathematics have brought courses with more emphasis on the modern approach to the subject. In 1963 students found that plane and solid geometry had been fused into one course. This year new textbooks are being used in algebra 1 and algebra 2, now combined with trigonometry. Students can also take advanced algebra, a course designed to give a thorough background as well as a taste of college mathematics. These basic courses will provide students with an excellent and applicable knowledge of mathematics.

The chorus and band provide enjoyment for the students of Lee High. The chorus and band members donate their time to early morning practices as well as night rehearsals before a concert. Lee High students are very proud of the high ratings received by their music department. This is seen by the well attended Christmas and spring concerts presented each year.

Physically fit is a "byword" in today's civilization. We need to build our minds, but just as important, we need to build our bodies. Many of today's and even more of tomorrow's jobs will demand strong bodies. Astronauts, Peace Corps Volunteers, and almost all federal and governmental jobs require people who can endure long days without becoming exhausted. Many students complain about the vigorous workouts, but in time they will come to see how vital they are to each of us.

Miss Harris keeps the girls "fit" by playing hockey, volleyball, basketball, tennis, and many other sports. Our daily exercises keep us limber and ready to go! Coaches Conger and Botkin give the boys daily exercises. They learn the rules of football, basketball, volleyball, and the tumbles of wrestling.

Chem-Study and Chemistry 2 Encourage

Sandy Gill sets up an experiment in which she generates oxygen in Chemistry II class.

Today's seniors are finding science more and more emphasized in modern colleges, and they can find no better preparation in physics, chemistry, biology, and general science than in that offered here at Lee.

Freshmen receive an excellent introduction to science in general through a well-rounded course in general science. After the first shock of dissecting worms, biology students usually survive to spend an interesting and informative year in the study of living things. With an emphasis on experimentation, two years of Chemistry are available, in which students learn the fundamentals of this basic science. Enriched by a trip to the local industries, Lee's physics classes take a modern P.S.S.C. course which comprises a harder but a better preparatory physics. Because of the importance of modern day technology and scientific advances, Lee is proud of giving its students such an excellent foundation in these sciences.

Students Meet New Challenges in Advanced History Course.

As the world becomes smaller and smaller and the nations of the world are brought closer together through continual improvements in communication and transportation, it becomes increasingly important that the rising generations have a deep understanding of the countries which make up our world. The Social Studies department at Lee strives toward this goal.

The world geography classes work with maps in detail and study the physical features and main sources of income of the individual countries. In the world history classes, students follow the story of mankind from prehistoric times to the present day. The American history course gives the student a detailed knowledge of the history of our own country. It begins with the reasons behind the discovery of America and continues with the nation's development from a struggling colony to the greatest nation ever known to man. In the government classes, the student learns the basic make-up of our system of government and the responsibilities and privileges of citizenship. This year a new course, advanced American history, is offered to challenge students who are particularly interested in history. The class strives for a deeper understanding of America's story with stress placed on the reasons behind different phases in our history.

Cooks and Custodians Perform Behind-the-Scenes Activities.

Certain members of our personnel who inconspicuously play a definite and important role in the school's everyday life are the custodians and cafeteria staff. Besides the education of over one thousand students everyday, Lee takes on the enormous task of providing a well-balanced lunch for the students. Our cafeteria staff, headed by a trained dietician, offers a wide variety of planned meals designed to keep the student body healthy. Keeping a school of this size neat and clean is another behind-the-scenes task that must be performed each day. Besides taking care of small duties such as raising the flag and delivering notices, the Lee High custodians strive to keep our building in tip-top shape.

Catherine Houff, Roxie Puffenbarger, Blanche Hoover, and Alice Murray prepare the salad for lunch.

A student goes through the daily ritual of depositing his plate after lunch and rushes off to join his friends in the hall.

Spirit of Tradition

As the Class of 1965 looks back over the past five years, they see the well-worn path of tradition that they have followed through Robert E. Lee High School, and they are proud of it. In their sophomore year, the Class of 1965 began to really feel a part of Lee. In that year, the sophomore girls challenged the senior girls to their traditional Powder-Puff game. Also in that year, they participated actively in the S.C.A. campaigns, learning the difficulty of deciding which two of their six classmates to support. In their junior year, the Class of 1965 again participated in the S.C.A. campaigns. This time they were proud to see their classmates elected to the offices of president and vice-president.

Their Junior Prom followed the theme of "A Summer Place." They worked hard to plan their dance, and had one of the largest crowds ever to attend the Junior Prom.

In the tradition of senior classes, the Class of 1965 proudly continued to follow such things as marching into assemblies. They suffered together through College Boards, parallels, exams, and the agony of waiting for acceptance at the colleges of their choice. They upheld the Powder-Puff tradition by winning 18 - 0. The Variety Show, Senior Day, Senior Prom, graduation, and the all-night party provided many wonderful memories of the Class of 1965 as they looked forward to their future lives.

Spirit of Anticipation

This year the Class of 1966 attained the coveted goal of becoming upperclassmen. As Juniors, they found themselves rapidly becoming officers in clubs and activities, members of assembly programs and, in general, playing a bigger and better part in the life at Lee. They were no longer the younger students looking upward, but realized that now they had the responsibility to set an example for the freshman and sophomore classes.

For the first time the Juniors took College Boards and Merit Scholarship tests and began seriously their search for a college or university to continue their school careers. College handbooks and annuals were familiar sights around the school in anticipation of the important decision they will have to make next year.

Under the sponsorship of the parents, they organized and presented the Junior Prom, "Shangri-La." There were Juniors decorating, practicing for the court, locating a band, planning the refreshments, and doing all the little jobs required when putting on their first prom. Preparing for it meant long hours of work, but, perhaps was almost as much fun as the big night itself. They were very proud of this ball and now anxiously await their Senior Prom.

The past school year has been a memorable one for the Junior Class but one of anticipation for many other years ahead.

Spirit of Achievement

The spirit of achievement has pervaded the Sophomore Class. Through participation in many activities, the Sophomore Class has felt a part of Lee High this year. They were well represented in sports, band, chorus, and other activities.

The Tri-Hi-Y challenged the Senior Tri-Hi-Y in the annual Powder-Puff game. They promoted the traditional spirit of rivalry by participation in the cafeteria. They sold ribbons to urge attendance at their game.

Several Sophomores took part in the S.C.A. Talent Show. They also presented their own classmates as candidates for the offices of secretary and treasurer of the S.C.A. After two years of being the youngest class it was fun for the Class of 1967 to feel a more important part of Lee High.

At last they have attained a feeling of achievement of which they are very proud.

Spirit of Adventure

Entering Lee High was a big adventure for the Freshman Class. Everything was new and even a bit frightening, but they were serious and knew many opportunities were in store for them. They had to adjust, of course, but soon they were organizing and selecting class officers and had developed a real class spirit.

Even finding their way to their classes was quite a problem at first, but the upper classmen were understanding and helpful in spite of the small, unappreciated initiation pranks they played on them at first.

The Freshmen during the year have become members of the Pep Club, have organized their Delta I and Delta II Tri-Hi-Ys, have participated in J.V. basketball and football.

Now they are looking forward to the time when they, too, will be upper-classmen at Lee.

Spirit of Co-operation

Co-operation is an essential part of all the various activities at Lee. This year the S.C.A. is a prime example of what an organization can accomplish through the willingness of each individual to work.

The members of the LEEWAY staff have given freely of their time to edit the yearbook and to recapture in this edition many detailed memories of the student life at Lee. The RECORD, published since 1911, continues to enhance the reputation Lee has already attained for creative effort.

The enthusiasm displayed by the members of the Pep Club has boosted school spirit and improved the student body's attitude toward sports.

The band members, coming early each morning, not only found rewards for themselves by such an organization, but actively contributed the Lee way by their frequent appearances at football games, at assemblies, and at evening concerts. The presentation of BRIGADOON was an outstanding and successful cooperative effort -- with the band, choral, and art departments participating.

The willingness to work is a vital element of such clubs as the F.B.L.A. and Distributive Education who realize the importance of working together in the business world.

The student assistants in the library perform indispensable services by helping Miss Crawford in her many duties, so that the Lee student body may be better served.

The Staunton Hi-Y's and Tri-Hi-Y's not only carry through school projects, but also serve the community and city by their activities.

Co-operation is the very heart of Lee's spirit; it enables the students to work together to achieve their goals.

ORGANIZATIONS

Senior representative, Mary Larner, and S.C.A. adviser, Mrs. Crisp, discuss the upcoming S.C.A. elections. Each February a committee of students, headed by the vice-president of the S.C.A., nominates three candidates to run for each of the four major offices of the S.C.A. After a hard fought campaign, the students elect the officers from these candidates.

Officers of the S.C.A. are Mary Bishop, Secretary; Sam Painter, President; Cheri Modesitt, Vice-President; and Steve Moore, Treasurer.

The S.C.A. Sponsors the First Talent Show.

All students of Lee High are members of the Student Cooperative Association which is governed by the student council. This year the student council has taken great strides in making the S.C.A. a more effective organization within the school and in the community.

Early in the summer, plans were begun for the orientation of new freshmen, the S.C.A.'s first project of the year. Each new freshman was welcomed with a special assembly and given a booklet called "The Guidebook for Freshmen." In order to raise funds, the S.C.A. sponsored the first Talent Show in the fall, operated the school store, and sold student directories. Three other new projects that were successfully carried out were the Christmas party given for a group of blind children at V.S.B., securing flags for every homeroom, and the setting up of a lost and found department. As a service to the students, the S.C.A. planned and co-ordinated over a dozen assembly programs and recommended that honor code cards be present on all desks during examinations. The S.C.A. also made a thorough study of the possibility of setting up an American Field Service foreign student chapter in the Staunton community.

The Band Presents Colorful Half Time Shows.

Busy and active are the adjectives needed to describe the band and its members during the 1964-1965 school year. Their greatest undertaking was being the host band for the District Five Regional Band Festival in February. Each band member had an assigned duty to perform throughout the full weekend. In the fall the band presented entertaining halftime programs at each of the home football games. In the spring they made their annual trip to Winchester for the Apple Blossom Festival. As usual the members presented its annual Christmas and Spring concerts.

Long Hours of Work by the Choral, Band, and Art Departments Go into the Production of Brigadoon.

The choral department, under the direction of Mrs. Anna Garretson, highlighted the spring activities of 1964 with a presentation of BRIGADOON. The band, directed by Mr. Paul Sanger, played for the program, and Mrs. McCray's art department built the sets and painted backdrops. The girls made their own dresses and presented a very colorful spectacle. The boys' costumes came from a costume house, giving the presentation a more professional touch. Mrs. Bryan coached those with speaking parts to develop a Scottish accent. Miss Bette Harris was in charge of the choreography and both created and taught the dances. Ann Barker, Jim Showker, Ann Meckstroth, George Sproul, Mary Larner, Tim Timberlake, and Eddie Shelley played the major roles in the story of a magical, Scottish town, which came into existence one day every century. The play was received with much enthusiasm as was shown by the capacity crowds which attended both performances.

The choral department of 1964-1965, under the direction of Miss Chrystal Diehl, presented a Christmas Concert in December. Also, the students presented a spring concert. The Assembly Choir presented Carousel. The students wrote their own script, and made costumes, sets, and backdrops.

The Assembly Choir and Girls' Chorus Take

The Assembly Choir and Girls' Chorus have made a major contribution to the work of the choral department. The members of the Assembly choir came to school early on several mornings of each week to practice. They took part in the annual Christmas concert and in the spring presentation. The Assembly Choir presented several selections at the Christmas and Thanksgiving assemblies, as well as at the preview assembly of the Christmas concert. Members of both groups went to All-State Chorus.

The Leeway Captures the Spirit of Lee High.

The LEEWAY staff has worked very hard to capture the Spirit of Lee High in pictures and words which will recall many pleasant memories of 1965. They have tried to present every facet of school life in such a way that it will catch the spirit and feeling with which each activity has been carried on.

The LEEWAY has presented several changes this year, including the addition of running headlines on all pages. The weeks before the deadlines often found the staff working early and late, but they made every effort to make this yearbook one which would please the student body and uphold the ideals of SIPA.

Ruth Haney, Sarah Nutt, and Karen Kincaid assist Miss Crawford by typing and mending books during their study halls.

A Group of Students Assist the Librarians.

Did you miss anyone from your study hall this year or did someone rush away from their locker after school?

They may have been working in the library as assistant helpers to Mrs. Brooks and Miss Crawford.

These workers have been a big help in the library by filing cards, mending and shelving books, and signing permission slips.

Because of their valuable services, these students have really helped to keep Lee's library running at a smooth pace.

Mary Richardson, Nikki Knopp, Christine Grant, Donna Bodkin, Claudia Resch, Diane Wood, Janet Claffey, and Compton Currin stand ready to check out students' books and help the librarians.

The Debate Club Challenges Area Schools to Debates.

Interest in the debate team has improved this year. The team increased its membership to eleven members. Miss Runnels and Miss DePriest served as assistant coaches to Mr. Richard Gordon.

Debating requires speaking ability, thorough understanding of material, and ability to think on one's feet. After last year's record of 27 wins and 3 losses but no state recognition, the team organized as difficult a schedule as possible. This schedule included debates with E. C. Glass, Andrew Lewis, A.M.A., Fishburne Military Academy, and three tournaments.

The subject for debate throughout the state this year was that nuclear weapons should be controlled by an international organization. Competition debaters included Marc Chevalier, Vic Ludwig, Sam Painter, and Harry Zelif. Other members of the team who did practice debating and did research for the team were Carol Chevalier, Sandy Valz, Debbie Humphries, Peter Hobbie, Christine Grant, Elsa Jensen, and Claudia Resch.

King and Queen, David Snyder and Jackie Hays, lead off the Court Dance.

Tina Lechler and Greg Snyder bring forth the crowns.

There Was a Summer Place of Unforgettable

Willow trees and baskets of fragrant flowers helped to create the atmosphere of A SUMMER PLACE, the theme of the Junior Prom. Abstract murals in pastel colors dominated the room. Baskets of flowers were suspended from the ceiling. Couples entered through French doors entwined with purple lilac and white bridal wreath. Green grass and ivy, intermixed with flowers, covered the wooden bridge which led from the dance floor to the stage. The King and Queen, David Snyder and Jackie Hays, began their reign seated on wrought-iron chairs under a flower-covered trellis. Their attendants were Sally Haislip and Bob Kennedy, Cheri Modesitt and Mike Fyock, Linda Birch and Wally Everiss, and Pat Cooney and Bill Leonard. The court formed the figure of a swing in honor of the King and Queen, who looked on before a background of willow trees.

Wayne Stonesifer, Bucky Miller, Rita Moyer and Wally Everiss join in the Court dance. In the background are some of the decorations which depict A SUMMER PLACE.

Lee's Boys' State delegates, Harry Zeliff, Bill Leonard, Tate Sterrett, Vic Ludwig, and Sam Painter joined vigorously in the activities of the week. They took tours of Williamsburg and were honored by the presence of Carol Shelton, the newly elected governor of Girls' State, and Governor Albertis S. Harrison.

Girls' and Boys' State Delegates Learn Good Citizenship.

Each year, several boys and girls of the junior class are chosen by the faculty of each high school in Virginia to attend Boys' and Girls' State. These sessions are held for one week each summer.

Radford was the site of Girls' State in June. The boys attended Boys' State in Williamsburg. This was the first year that the session had taken place in that historic town.

Upon arrival, the delegates were divided into twelve cities with approximately fifty delegates in each city. Also, each person was given a cap denoting the party of which he or she was a member. The two parties, Federalist and Nationalist, held party caucuses to nominate candidates for the state elections.

The delegates elected mayors, other city officials, and State Senators and Delegates. There were frequent city meetings in which ordinances were drawn up.

At night, various entertainments were provided such as skits, talent night, movies, and concerts by the glee club and orchestra.

The week was highlighted by the state campaigns and elections. The candidates presented vigorous campaigns in which everyone had a part. The climax was the inauguration of the new governor, lieutenant governor, and attorney general.

Girls' State delegates Mary Larner, Molly Grogan, and Cheri Modesitt, were all members of the Glee Club. Mary was treasurer of her city. Molly was a postmaster, and Cheri was a State Senator. They were privileged to have the popular pianist, Peter Nero, for entertainment.

Members of the Honor Council of 1965 are:

The definition of the purpose of the Honor Council of 1965 as adopted by the Council was, "To encourage and promote the spirit of honor and self-respect among the pupils of the high school."

Throughout the school year, the Honor Council has acted as the "pulse" of the school, evaluating student reactions to various situations. The Honor Council is composed of five seniors and an adviser. In the spring of their junior year, the class nominated those members of their class whom they thought would make good members. The faculty decided upon five from a list of approximately fifty names.

Lee High's Honor Council of 1965 is an organization different from those of other years. The group set up several objectives which have been followed closely through the year. Should a student see another student cheat, abuse property, or behave in a disrespectful manner, he should report that student to a teacher. The teacher, if he thinks the situation is worthy of attention, should report the student to the Honor Council. The Honor Council would then talk to the student to determine the reason for the action. The Council did not try to determine a person's guilt or to recommend punishment.

The Honor Council of 1965 has attempted to raise the standards of Lee High in the hope that the Council can continue to operate successfully.

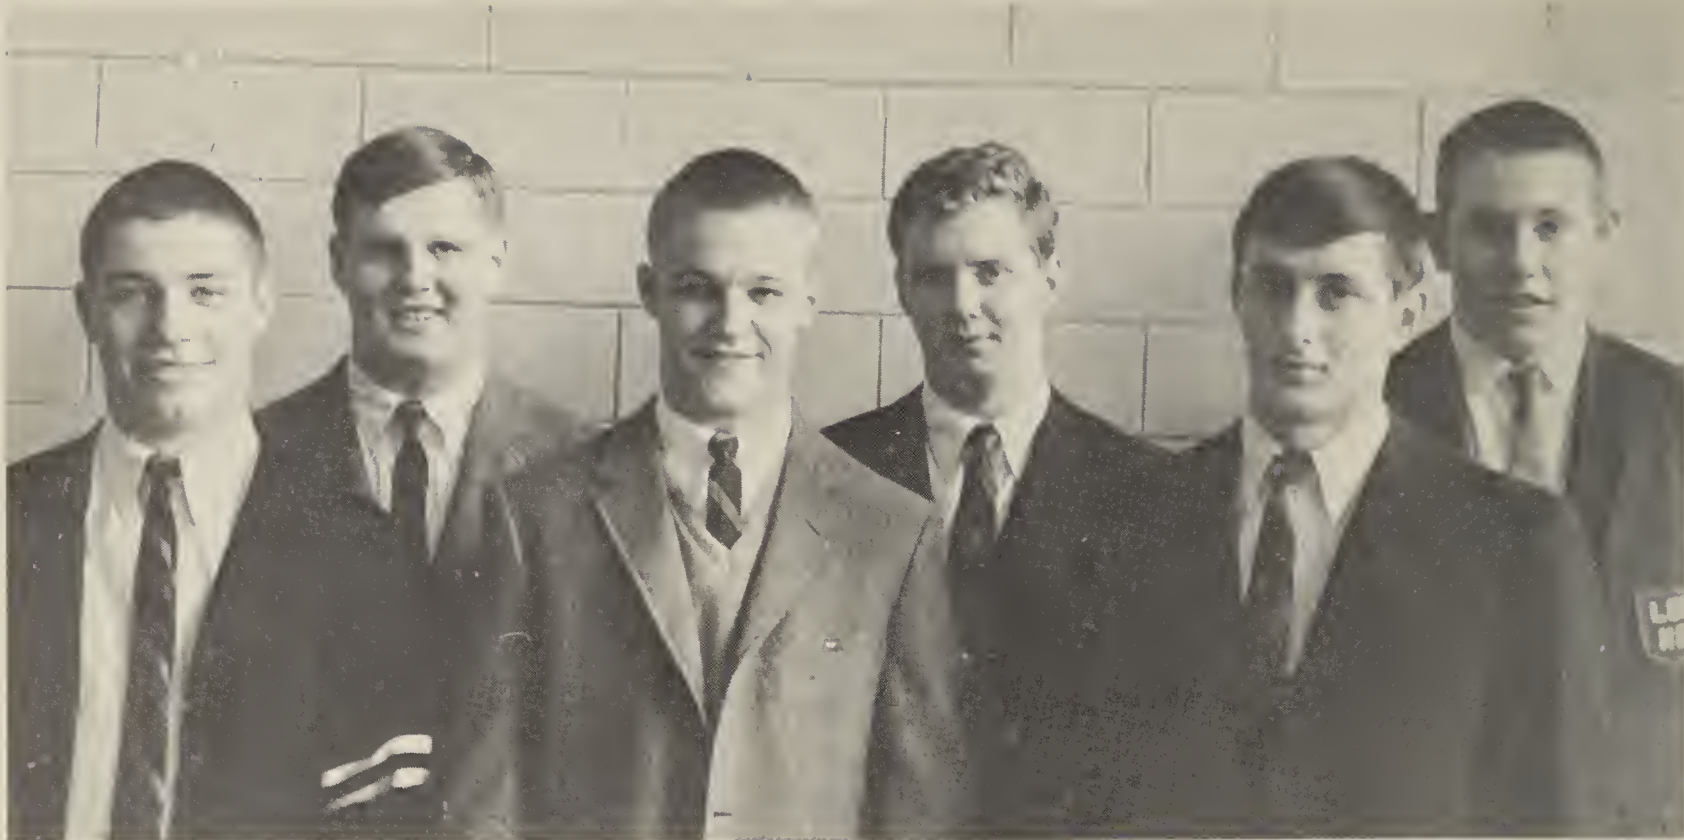

Five Seniors Compose the Newly Formed Honor Council.

About 750 members of Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y clubs attended the Model General Assembly held in Richmond. The senators and delegates met in the actual Senate Chamber and House of Delegates in the Capitol.

The seriousness with which the proposed bills were introduced and debated seemed to impress even the real state senators and delegates who had come to help the students. They learned much about the complexities of our state government and felt very privileged to have been able to talk with the actual legislators of the state.

Senators Georgia Reynard and Harry Zelif and Delegates Sue Sherrill and Denny Richardson were representatives to the 1964 Model General Assembly.

Members of Lee's 1964 football team who made All-State are Lee Swats, Honorable Mention; Sam Painter, Second String Team; Mike Fyock, Honorable Mention; Bob Kennedy, Second String Team; Bill Leonard, Honorable Mention; and Eddie Carter, First String Team.

Lee Is Host for District Events.

Students who participated in forensics are Sally Haislip, Girls' Public Speaking; Susan Baugher, District First Place in Girls' Prose; Kat Atkins, District and State First Place in Girls' Poetry; Dale Brown, District Third Place in Boys' Public Speaking; and Bobby Wright, District Third Place in Boys' Prose. Not shown is Gary Knighting who won First Place in the District and State for spelling.

This year Lee was host to the All-District Band. A state director and nationally known director aided in the organization of this group. This band consisted of over two hundred of the best musicians from the twenty-four bands in District V. Twenty-one Lee students received this honor.

Lee also sent 11 members of the choral department to the All-State Chorus.

Lee football players continued to receive state honors this year. Three boys made All-State and three others received honorable mention.

Since Lee was host to the 1964 Forensic meet, she was very proud to have three first-place and two third-place winners in the District competition.

Spirit of Competition

Although an academic education is stressed at Lee High, no one can minimize the importance of an athletic education. One who participates in sports learns a great deal that cannot be learned from books.

First of all, one learns how to work with and understand people. Secondly, and perhaps more important, one learns how to compete with other people.

One's moral character is greatly strengthened by competition. If one competes fairly in sports events it will help give him a strong basis for competitive situations that will arise in years to come. This is highly important, for if it were not for a spirit of fair competition, this country would not be what it is today.

Co-Captains, Sam Painter and Bob Kennedy, discuss the schedule of games arranged for the 1964 season.

Under the new leadership of coach Jim Conger the Leemen showed they still had what it takes to make them Valley District Champions.

Although our team will be cut drastically next year by the loss of many of our senior starters, Coach Conger is still confident that the Fighting Leemen will be right on top again next fall.

Touchdown! Kennedy sneaks in for the score.

This is the toe that accounted for almost every Lee kickoff and point after touchdown. Swats, Fyock, Masincup, (kicking), and Patterson.

Rock-ribbed defense and too much of Bill Leonard was the story as the Leemen opened the 1964 season with a smashing 20-0 win over favored Covington.

Some people had doubted the strength of the Leemen, but a defensive line that limited Covington to a mere 73 yards made Jim Conger's debut as head coach a grand success.

Bill Leonard ran for 130 yards and two touchdowns. Bob Kennedy threw a 53-yard bomb to Steve Moore for the other score.

"Come get me," Roger Dedrick says to a Lane player, as he hauls in a pass.

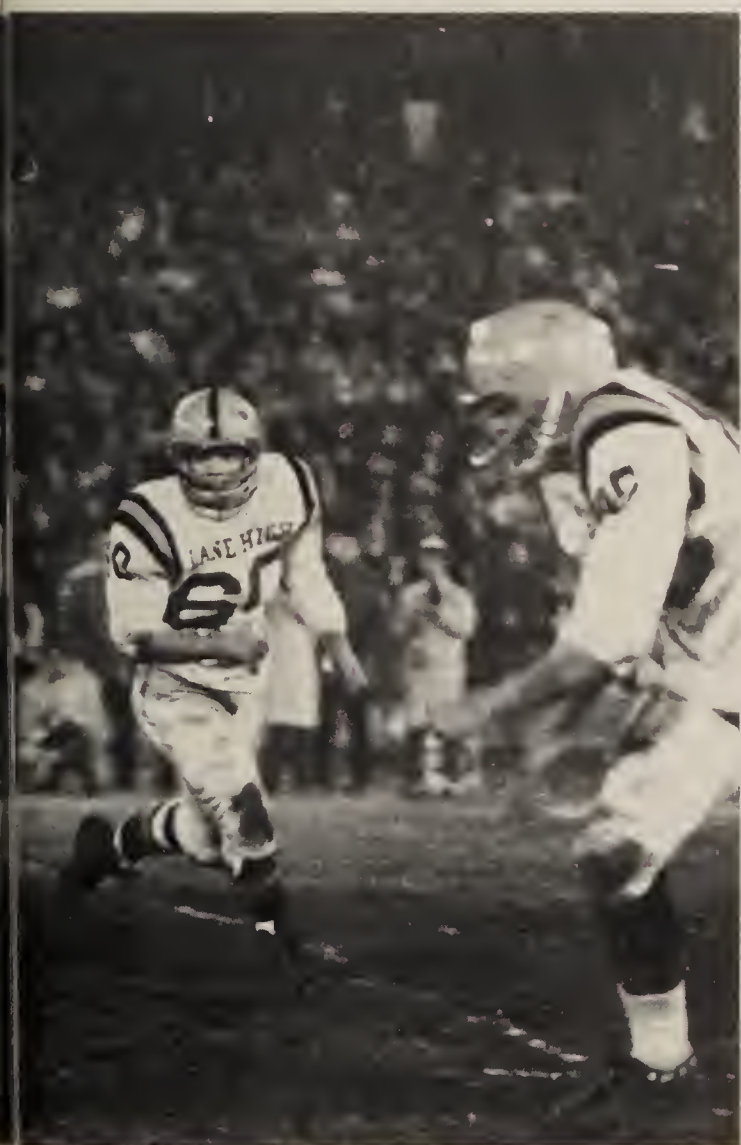

Bill Leonard (24) crashes into a defensive line as he carries the ball for Lee.

Sad, but Proud, Lee Wins Praise at Lane.

Not one of the 6000 fans present can ever forget the Lee-Lane game. It was one of the hardest fought contests in Lee history.

A Kennedy to Dedrick pass and a one-yard sneak by Kennedy accounted for Lee's twelve points as they fell one point shy of a Lane rally in the fourth quarter.

The game's outcome brought tears to many eyes, but through those tears the pride of Lee shone as the Leemen represented their school well in a game billed as "the best in the state."

Playing, perhaps, their best game of the season, the Leemen handed powerful James Wood of Winchester their second loss of the season, 66-59.

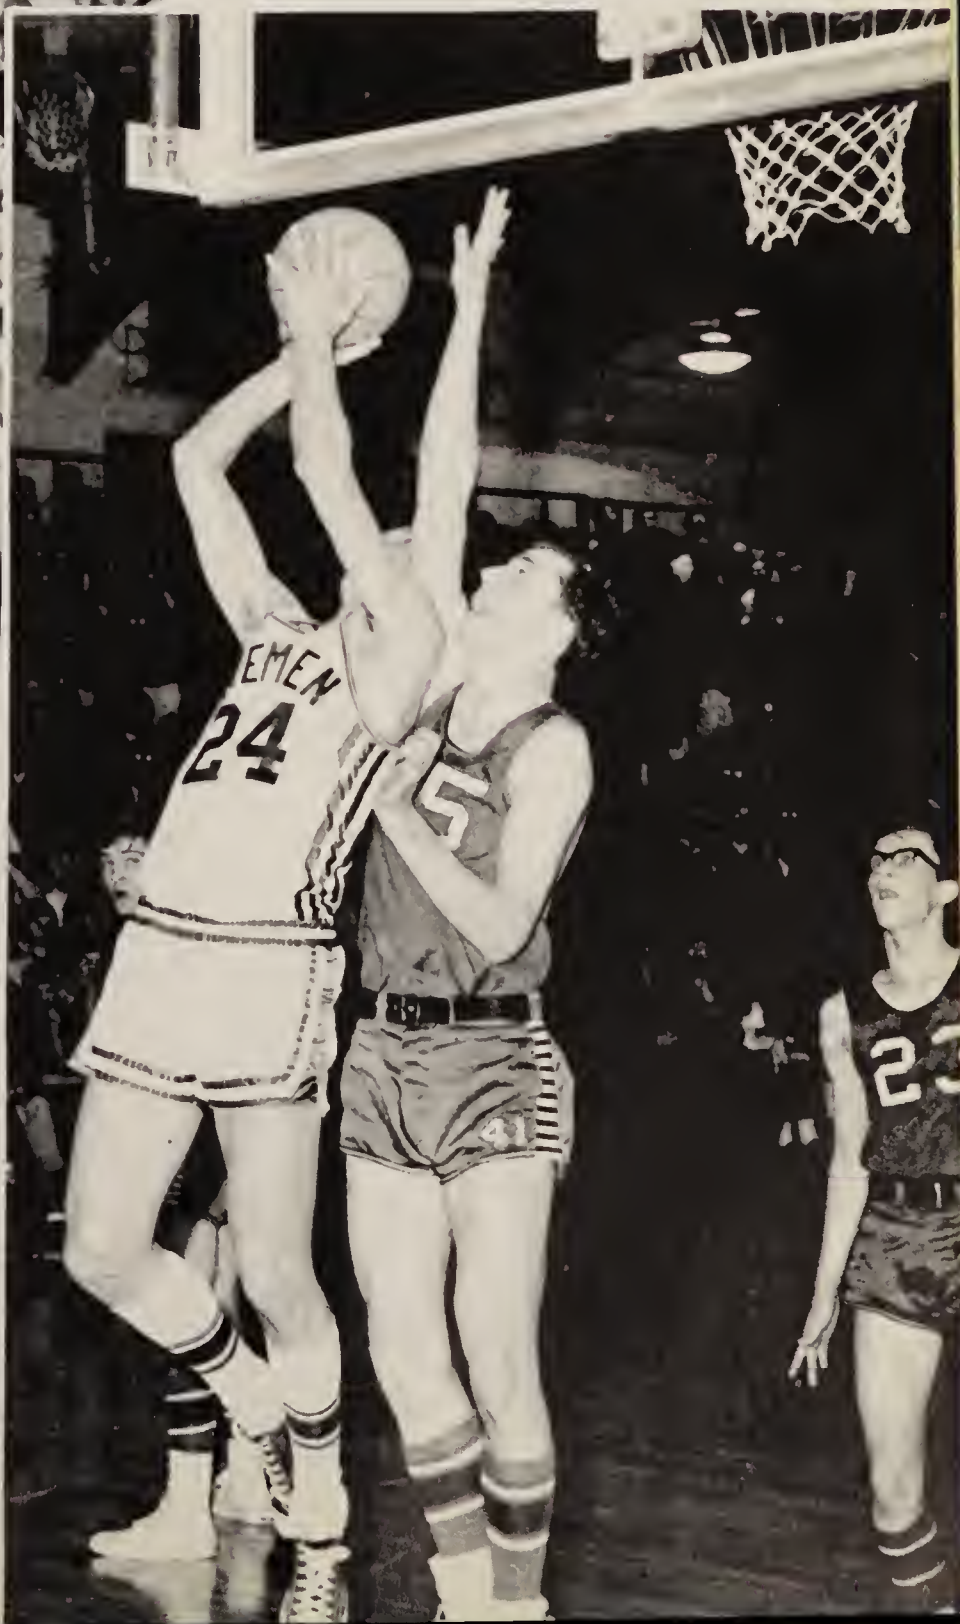

The outstanding shooting of Donnie Dedrick in the third period and the fancy dribbling of Mike Stewart in the final period inspired the Leemen to victory.

Strain shows on Eddie Carter's face as he sinks two.

Donnie Dedrick gets two points against Albermarle in the first game of the Tournament.

Before a packed house, the Leemen avenged an earlier 81-44 pounding by Danville. Although the Leemen lost by a 41-35 count, they held the highly rated Group IA team to their lowest score of the season.

Unlike the first game, the Leemen used "freeze tactics", trying to control the game. Such play offset the Cardinals' height advantage and kept the score close.

"Umph!" groans Mike Stewart as he stretches to lay one in against Harrisonburg.

"Jump ball!" Gary Fowlds and Woodie Wimer struggle for the ball as Jay Coffman of Harrisonburg watches.

Lee Holds Her First Homecoming Game.

The referee's whistle stops the "ballet" in mid-air at the Buena Vista game.

Lee supporters, including many Lee alumni, occupied over two thirds of the stands, and they saw the Leemen play one of the most exciting games of the year.

In Lee High's first homecoming basketball game, the Leemen whipped the Blues from Buena Vista, 65-48, and thus avenged an earlier 63-61 defeat.

The 1965 Outlook

The 1965 cindermen will undoubtedly face strong opponents, but the Lee-men themselves will pose a problem for all competitors, as they will have many of last year's standouts returning.

Jim Lyle and Danny Riddle will run well in the longer distant events, while Duane Smith will be counted on in the sprints.

Eddie Carter, Donald Curry, Sam Painter, and Gary Rowe will be the "big" weight men.

Woodie Wimer and Bob Kennedy will be hurdlers, and Wimer will also broad-jump.

Terry Westhafer should do even better in the 440 than last year's third-place finish in the state meet.

Varsity Cheerleaders Play a Vital Part in Improving School Spirit.

The beginning of the summer saw the nine Varsity Cheerleaders stiff and sore as they began practice for the fall football season. Once school started again, more hours of practice took place in the gym in the afternoons. Cold weather, rain, and mud did not affect the spirit of these girls. For the basketball season, the girls and their adviser, Miss Bette Harris, worked up some unusual cheers, including the "flip."

For one pep rally they played a mock football game, much to everyone's amusement. Also during the season, they organized a snake dance from the stadium to the front of the school where a dummy of the opponent was burned in effigy. Before the basketball tournament, as a part of the pep rally, the cheerleaders had a combo to play. As members of the Pep Club, they decorated the cafeteria and the buses to the away games.

The LEEWAY staff wishes to express our deep appreciation to Mr. Smither, our principal, Miss Cook and Mrs. Homan, our school secretaries, and Mrs. McClung, our adviser, for the help they have given us. It is impossible to evaluate what the advice, co-operation, and understanding of these people have contributed to our efforts.

We would like to give special thanks to the STAUNTON LEADER PAPERS, Mr.

Dennis Sutton, Mr. Ted Riddle, and Mr. Robert Norling for the assistance and many sports pictures which they gave the Sports staff throughout the year. Our thanks, also, go to THE MIRROR for the individual sports pictures they donated.

We sincerely hope that this edition of the LEEWAY has captured the true spirit of Lee High. It is also our hope that every student shall carry this spirit with him throughout his life.
